Chronicle Official Story

Bella Kelly was born in 1915 in Mount Barker, which is in Minang country in the South Coast region of Western Australia. Kelly was the daughter of Billy Colbung (dec.) and Mina Bayla Brockman (dec.), who were members of the Wardandi people and originated from the southwest region of Western Australia. Kelly's birth name was Isobel Colbung. Kelly spent her childhood in the bush, and would sometimes draw pictures in the sand while she sat around the campfire with her elders. Her parents earned an income from selling kangaroo skins to buyers who visited the region around Cranbrook (40 kilometres north of Mount Barker). In later years, her father worked as a
